

Hong Kong Daily Press.

ESTABLISHED 1857.

No. 10,695

五十九百五十一第一

三月二十一日

HONGKONG TUESDAY JANUARY 12TH 19.

二月

五十二正

PRICE 52½ PER HONGKONG

NOTICE.
Communications respecting Advertisements, Subscriptions, Printing, Binding, &c. should be addressed to the Daily Press, only, and special business matters to the Manager, only.

Orders for extra copies of the Daily Press should be sent before 11 a.m. on the day of publication.

Advertisers that have the supply should be limited.

Telegraphic Address Press. Telephone No. 12.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE HONGKONG LAND INVESTMENT AND AGENCY COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOTICE is hereby given that the FOURTH ORDINARY MEETING of SHAREHOLDERS in this Company will be held at the Office of the Company, 10, Queen's Road, on MONDAY, 15th January, 1892, at 12 o'clock Noon, for the purpose of receiving the Report of the Directors, together with a Statement of Accounts for the year ending 31st December, 1891.

The REGISTER of SHARES of the Company will be CLOSED from MONDAY the 15th to THURSDAY the 25th January, 1892, (both days inclusive), during which period no Transfer of Shares can be registered.

By Order of the Board of Directors.

A. SHELTON HOOVER,
Secretary.

Hongkong, 12th January, 1892.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF HONGKONG.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

IN THE MATTER OF TSUI TSZ HI, A BANKRUPT.

NOTICE is hereby given that a MEETING of CREDITORS of TSUI TSZ HI will be held before the Registrar of the said Court on TUESDAY, 13th January, 1892, at 12 o'clock Noon precisely, for the purpose of receiving a Dividend.

Creditors who have not approved must do so on or before the said day of January, 1892.

Dated the 11th day of January, 1892.

EDW. J. ACKROYD,
Bogister.

THEATRE THE ROYAL,
CITY HALL,
HONGKONG.

MONDAY, 15th JANUARY, 1892.

GRAND ASSAULT-AT-ARMS
at which will appear the
"HERO OF A HUNDRED FIGHTS".

PROFESSOR WOOLF BENDOFF, assisted by
MEMBERS of the V. R. CLUB and
LORNE ATHLETIC CLUB.
(By kind permission of Col. V. CHATER)

Mr. A. H. WYBERT,
Roller Skating and Bicycle Busesque.

EXHIBITION BOXING BY GENTLEMEN
AMATEURS and
Prof. J. H. C. Corp. J. THOMAS.
Prof. P. SULLIVAN & F. J. LUNNIN.
PROFESSOR WOOLF BENDOFF & Mr. W.
WARKE.

(GRAND WIND UP)
WOOLF BENDOFF & Mr. A. RODGER,
M. C. - M. C. H. THOMPSON and St. SOR-
GENS J. TENNANT.

Tickets may be obtained of Messrs. REILLY
& WALSH, LIMITED.

ADMISSION $2 and $1. Soldiers and Sailors
50 cents Back Seats.

Doors Open 8.30 P.M. Commence at 9 sharp.

Hongkong, 12th January, 1892.

AUCTION OF SUPERIOR WINES,
SPIRITS, &c.

THE STOCK OF THE PEAK HOTEL
COMPANY, LIMITED.

THE Undersigned has received instructions to sell by
PUBLIC AUCTION,

ON
TUESDAY, the 12th JANUARY, 1892,

at his Sales Room, Queen's Road.

The Stock of
SUPERIOR WINES, SPIRITS,
LIQUEURS, &c.

Comprising—

CHAMPAGNE, CHAMPAGNE SEAL, GOLD,
FOIL, MONOPOLY, JULES MUMM,
POMEROLY, and GREEN, &c.

CLARETS—MOUTIN ROTHSCILD,
CHATEAUX MARGAUX, ST. JULIEN,
&c.

SHERRIES—PORT, BURGUNDY,
CATHERINE, CHATEAUX MOZELLES, SAUEREN, CHATEAUX CHYUEN, HEN-NESSY, BRANDY, GINGER BRANDY,
GIN, &c.

ABSINTHE, CURACAO, CHARTRE-
USE, NOYEAL, &c.

AUSTRALIAN and CALIFORNIAN WINES.

BASS, LAGER and other BEER, &c.

Catadores will be invited.

TERMS OF SALE—A customary
J. M. ARISTRONG,
Auctioneer.

Hongkong, 12th January, 1892.

"ARARAT" LODGE OF ROYAL ARK
MARINERS.

ATTACHED TO ROTHEN LODGE OF
MARK MASTERS, No. 264, E.C.

A REGULAR MEETING of the above

LODGE will be held in the FREEMAN-
SON'S HALL, Zetland Street, on THURSDAY,
the 14th inst., at 8.30 for 9 P.M. precisely.

Hongkong, 12th January, 1892.

ROTHERN MARK LODGE OF HONG-KONG, No. 264.

A REGULAR MEETING of the above

LODGE will be held in the FREEMAN-
SON'S HALL, Zetland Street, on MONDAY,
the 18th inst., at 8.30 for 9 P.M. precisely.

Hongkong, 12th January, 1892.

DOUGLAS STEAMSHIP COMPANY,
LIMITED.

FOR SWATOW, AMOY, and FOOCHEW.

THE Company's Steamship

"HAIPHONG,"

Captain Lewis, will be despatched for the above

Ports to MOREOW, the 15th inst., at Noon.

For Freight or Passage, apply to

DOUGLAS LAPIRA & CO.,

General Managers.

Hongkong, 12th January, 1892.

STEAM TO SHANGAI.

THE P. & O. S. N. Co.'s Steamship

"KHEDIVE,"

Captain L. H. Moore, will have quick despatch for the above port after her arrival here with the outward Mail.

E. A. HEWITT,
for Superintendent.

Hongkong, 12th January, 1892.

STEAM TO YOKOHAMA, VIA NAGA-SAKI and KOBE.

(Passing through the INLAND SEA.)

THE P. & O. S. N. Co.'s Steamship

"ANCONA,"

Captain W. D. Mudd, will leave for the above

Places on FRIDAY, the 22nd instant, at N.O.N.

E. A. HEWITT,
for Superintendent.

Hongkong, 12th January, 1892.

NEW ADVERTISEMENT.

STEAM FOR
SIAM, PENANG, COLOMBO,
ADEN, ISMAILIA, PORT SAID,
MALTA, GIBRALTAR, MARSEILLE,
BRINDISI, PLYMOUTH, AND LONDON;

BOMBAY, MADRAS, CALCUTTA, AND AUSTRALIA.

N.B.—CARGO CAN BE TAKEN IN THROU-GH BILLS OF LADING FOR BATAVIA, PERSIAN
GULF PORTS, MARSEILLE, HAMBURG,
NEW YORK, and BOSTON.

SPACIAL LANDING AT PLYMOUTH.

THE HONGKONG LAND INVESTMENT AND AGENCY COMPANY, LIMITED.

NOTICE is hereby given that the FOURTH
ORDINARY MEETING of SHARE-HOLDERS in this Company will be held at the Office of the Company, 10, Queen's Road, on MONDAY, 15th January, 1892, at 12 o'clock
Noon, for the purpose of receiving the Report of the Directors, together with a Statement of Accounts for the year ending 31st December, 1891.

The REGISTER of SHARES of the Company will be CLOSED from MONDAY the 15th to THURSDAY the 25th January, 1892, (both days inclusive), during which period no Transfer of Shares can be registered.

By Order of the Board of Directors.

A. SHELTON HOOVER,
Secretary.

Hongkong, 12th January, 1892.

INTIMATIONS.

NOTICE.

THE Undersigned have been appointed Sole Agents for Hongkong and China for the AMERICAN TOBACCO (TRUST) COMPANY, and will be responsible for all Sales of
"SCHWEITZER'S," "FOUR DENS," etc., &c. CIGARETTES and TOBACCO.

ARNOLD, KARBERG & Co.

Hongkong, 15th July, 1891.

1716

BIRLEY, DALRYMPLE & Co.

Hongkong, 17th December, 1891.

1802

DODWELL, CARLILL & Co.

Hongkong.

Agents, Hongkong.

1101-6a

DAKIN BROTHERS OF CHINA
LIMITED.

CHIMISTS.

DAKIN'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL.

For Phthisis, Cold, Convalescence, Diseases of Children, and General Ability. This

Emulsion is prepared on a large scale by means of the most improved machinery and with the purest ingredients. It is guaranteed to contain no per cent. of the finest Norwegian Cod Liver Oil.

It is sweet and pleasant to the palate, and easily borne by the most delicate stomach, and is equal in every respect to the most costly preparations sold, and at about half the price.

12-oz. Bottles

1200.

Per dozen

1000.

Telephone No. 60.

No. 22 & 24, QUEEN'S ROAD CENTRAL.

1221

DEPARTURES.

AT THE HARBOUR MARTIN'S OFFICE.

1230.

CHIANG.

by the last Congress of a sum to compensate the last of the steamers for carrying slaves in the United States of the class to which the slaves of the Ark are limited, those capable of speed in many cases of more than 20 statute miles an hour for thousands of miles without coaling, and will tend to restore the old carrying trade of the Ark. France, with its colonies in Great Britain, France, and Germany. Commenting on the great influx of immigrants into this country during the past year, amounting to half a million, or one hundred thousand more than in the preceding year, the Secretary says: "An analysis of the statistics shows that an increasing proportion of immigrants is coming to us from the countries whose people are least adapted to and least prepared for citizenship in a free republic, and the least inclined to assimilate with the general body of American citizens. The law already enacted by Congress for the protection of incoming unrestricted immigration has accomplished something. While the application of existing laws has very greatly diminished some of the abuses which they were aimed, it obviously has not prevented a large increase in the total volume of immigration, and without deterioration in the quality of the immigrants. Congress is now faced with a system which has thus far necessarily been tentative and experimental. Plainly the process of fitting immigrants should at least begin abroad to be completed, and not commenced at the United States port of arrival. Some system of inspection, or at least of examination, is necessary, in the country where the intending immigrant resides. It is bettered by entirely practicable, and such a system, supplemented by continued vigilance at our ports of entry, ought to prove effective to the desired end. Of Chinese emigration, the Secretary says: "The Chinese are to be considered in their efforts to reinforce the Chinese Population Act, but with only partial success, and unless Congress enacts now legislation upon the subject, it would seem that any Chinese labourer may lawfully enter the United States after May 6th, 1892, unless he shall have previously resided here for a period of three years. The Chinese are, however, hard to keep, and will not fall in with the full purpose of the Chinese Population Act, which the Canadian Government admits Chinese labourers to Canada at pleasure, and that they are likely to invade our territory along its entire Northern border."

OLLA PODRIDA.

The study of Shakespeare is having a great revival in Germany. The German Shakespeare Society, whose headquarters are at Würzburg, has several distinguished members, among whom is the Emperor, the Grand Duke of Baden, and the Emperor of Brazil.

Mark Twain, when recently in Germany, received much attention in Berlin. A portrait has been painted of him in oil and weekly papers have articles upon his life and work have been written, and numerous accounts have been given of his fabulous wealth.

M. Stepani is preparing to erect a Memorial Palace at the World's Fair at Chicago. One of the many attractions which he proposes to exhibit in this palace is $100,000 in gold coins in one pile, a sight which he believes nearly every visitor will want to see.

The digestion of a bird is not quite so strong as the digestion of an ostrich—a bird which is said, perhaps, reluctantly, to be partial to a diet of tempey nails—but is very nearly so. The few things that a robust schoolboy will not eat for pleasure he is generally ready to eat for a wager; and the few things that a schoolboy will not eat for pleasure when he is at school, succeed in eliminating forty-three marbles from their pocket, and it is said that he feels none the worse for his excesses. Further bulletins will, notwithstanding, be awaited with anxiety.

According to the New Review, Professor Lounsbrough, of Turin, has been for some years collecting every scrap of writing by prisoners on the walls of their cells, on bits of straw paper, and pot-hands and broken dishes, which could find no outlet, and studied and analyzed it. He is a student of the psychology of debasement and degradation, and has glimpses into the dark corners of the criminal mind revealed. Hardly ever in the world has the faintest expression of regret been shown. Usually the criminal assumes that his judges and the police and lawyers are worse than himself, his only desire being to be allowed to get out. As a rule he has but one hope—that of release, in order to avenge himself on society by further raids. Most of his confessions, we need not say, are unfit for publication. Next to the judges and the police the chaplains appear to be the objects of his bitterest scorn.

We are threatened, we see, with a fresh invasion by Mr. Bessant and others upon the rewards and honours due from the State to literature. In this connection some remarks made by Mr. B. H. Miller, of the "Daily Mail," are of interest: "More Milton," he says, "have remained mute and impotent under the anunction of wealth than under the freights of pauperism." Pensions to poets may be least bad companion with that which has flourished upon boorishness. In this connection some remarks made by Mr. B. H. Miller, of the "Daily Mail," are of interest: "More Milton," he says, "have remained mute and impotent under the anunction of wealth than under the freights of pauperism." Pensions to poets may be least bad companion with that which has flourished upon boorishness. Hardly ever in the world has the faintest expression of regret been shown. Usually the criminal assumes that his judges and the police and lawyers are worse than himself, his only desire being to be allowed to get out. As a rule he has but one hope—that of release, in order to avenge himself on society by further raids. Most of his confessions, we need not say, are unfit for publication. Next to the judges and the police the chaplains appear to be the objects of his bitterest scorn.

We are threatened, we see, with a fresh invasion by Mr. Bessant and others upon the rewards and honours due from the State to literature. In this connection some remarks made by Mr. B. H. Miller, of the "Daily Mail," are of interest: "More Milton," he says, "have remained mute and impotent under the anunction of wealth than under the freights of pauperism." Pensions to poets may be least bad companion with that which has flourished upon boorishness. Hardly ever in the world has the faintest expression of regret been shown. Usually the criminal assumes that his judges and the police and lawyers are worse than himself, his only desire being to be allowed to get out. As a rule he has but one hope—that of release, in order to avenge himself on society by further raids. Most of his confessions, we need not say, are unfit for publication. Next to the judges and the police the chaplains appear to be the objects of his bitterest scorn.

The Duke of Portland has been very successful in his efforts to get a share of the winning over the last year, a sum which has just been brought to a close. His winnings in stakes alone during that period amounted to nearly £100,000, showing an average of £20,000. whereas this year his total only reaches a little over £5,000. In place of stakes being placed to the credit of his partner, however, there are now doubtful honours, which have been equally divided. Mr. Noel Ferrier now occupies first place with £20,000, and is closely pressed by Colonel North with £20,116. Next in order comes Mr. H. Miller, of "The People," with £21,646. Mr. Johnstone with £21,646, Mr. Harry with £11,645, and the Duke of Westminster with £10,331. The noble Duke's winnings on the turf for a single season have thus amounted to five times as much as the cost of the Board-school plan which have caused him so much distress.

A few mornings since, on a field correspondent visiting his pony at eight o'clock to wash, he found that out of twenty-six birds twenty-one had disappeared since 3 p.m. the previous evening. The most remarkable of this was a bird which had been shot in the spruce, but the proximity of the place to London precluded the possibility of such a visitor. Later in the day the trail of feathers was followed up to a spruce about a quarter of a mile away, where, in an ornithological condition in the bushes with feathers around him was a young bird, bound to a spruce, the spruce, which is eighteen months old, broke loose two days previously, and had not been recovered. It was captured and taken to its owner, and then a search began for the fowl, as it was impossible that he could have eaten twenty-one. During the search, however, he did not find the bird, nor was found buried in the ground, but in the dung-heaps in several of the neighbouring fields—most skillfully buried too. Each bird that the writer saw was lying on its back with its head turned down by its side. Those could be seen where the bird had perched and, following the ground, had passed over the earth.

The bird, however, had been shot in the spruce, and the feathers were found on the spruce, a quarter of a mile. Assuming the bird took one bird at a time, this gives some idea of how hard and deliberately he must have worked. It appears that each bird had been bitten through the heart, and, following the ground, had passed over the earth.

Chinaman the safe people, have just received a bill him a safe in the form of an elephant. It is to be made of steel, and will be 12-feet long. Talking to the manager of the firm's Work-Shop establishment (St. James's street, Pall Mall), I learned that safes are now made in all manner of shapes. One that is being made now is a safe to hold the contents of a cabinet. It will be beautifully fitted with velvet-lined drawers for jewelry, and will be placed in a mahogany case with a marble top. Jewel-cases are largely given as wedding and Christmas presents. They are generally made with keyless locks, the majority of which are made to run in a safe.

There is a safe which is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a month, and is said to be a rich man. The number is generally associated with the owner's birthday, so that there is no chance of it being forgotten.

"Miss Tonkington," tells a terrible tale in the "Daily Mail," of the treatment of German soldiers. From general to corporal the regulations prohibiting flagrante appear to be habitually ignored. Captain Miller, a veteran of his rank, and title by the late King of Württemberg, was given a pension of £100 a

